RECENT SCHOOL PUBLICATIONS.

APPLETONS' READERS

UNIVERSALLY APPROVED. EVERYWHERE SUCCESSFUL.

Appletons' School Readers were Adopted, June 22, 1882, for the Public Schools of Chicago, with a Vote of Thirteen to One.

Appletons' Elementary Reading Charts.

46 numbers. Prepared by Rebecca D. Rickoff. Every Chart in the series has in view a definite object, which is thoroughly and systematically developed. Every step in advance is in a logical order of progression and development. The beautiful and significant illustrations are an especially noticeable and attractive feature of these charts. Lectures, objects, and things employed, rather than abstract rules and naked type. They follow the natural method of teaching, appealing to those faculties of the child that are most easily awakened, and inciting correct mental processes at the outset. They are arranged to be suspended when in use, from the back of a common chair, thus securing at all times a good position for the convenient and advantageous display before classes.

A Latin Grammar for Schools and Colleges.

By Albert Harkness, Ph. D., LL. D. Revised edition of 1881. It is an elocutionary grammar for beginners. This is indeed its prime object, with which nothing has been allowed to interfere. Brevity of treatment, clearness of outline, and simplicity of statement, characterize this part of the work. It is an adequate and trustworthy grammar for advanced students. Care has been taken to explain and illustrate with the requisite fulness, all difficult and intricate subjects. The Subjunctive Mood and the Indirect Discourse have received special attention. It contains a practical introduction to philological study, based upon the Latin. Abundant references are made to the latest and best authorities upon the numerous linguistic questions which now interest the classical scholar.

The Song Wave.

A collection of choice music, with elementary instruction. For the school room, institute hall, and home circle. It is the freshest, brightest, and most entertaining work of the kind published. It contains a variety of pieces, adapting it to every occasion. It contains the purest sentiment in its text, desirable for memorizing. It is characterized by a prevailing harmony in its musical selections seldom found. It contains a brief, practical, and comprehensive course of elementary instruction. It has a large, clear, beautiful type, rendering it attractive in appearance and helpful to the eyesight. It retains the best of standard favorites among the old songs, and introduces new ones of great merit. A sample copy, for examination, will be forwarded on receipt of 60 cents.

A Geographical Reader. (Illustrated.)

A collection of geographical descriptions and explanations, from the best writers in English literature. Classified and arranged to meet the wants of geographical students. By James Johonnot. It is original and unique in conception and execution. It is varied in style, and treats of every variety of geographical topic. It supplements the geographical text-books, and by giving additional interest to the study, it leads the student to more extensive geographical reading and research. It is not simply a collection of dry statistics and outline descriptions, but vivid narrations of great literary merit, that convey useful information and promote general culture. It conforms to the philosophical ideas upon which the new education is based. Just published. Sample copy, for examination, 75 cents.

Appletons' Standard System of Penmanship.

Prepared by Lyman D. Smith. Lead-Pencil Course, 3 Nos. Short Course, 7 Nos. Short Course (tracing), 2 Nos. Grammar Course, 7 Nos. The following are among the leading features of this system: Writing made the expression of thought. Word, phrase, and sentence building, constituting interesting language-lessons. Writing taught synthetically. No tedious drills on parts of letters or isolated letters. The movement drill, whereby pupils acquire with certainty the real writing movement. No exaggerated style of writing which leads the pupil to draw rather than to write. Graded columns, whereby the increasing scope of movement enables the pupil gradually and naturally to acquire the fore-arm movement. Better gradation than is found in any other series. They are in accordance with the modern methods of teaching.

This system, thus dealing with whole letters, words, and sentences, rapidly advances the pupil by steps that are natural, progressive, graded, clear, and attractive.

Catalogues, circulars, etc., mailed free on application. We also send "Educational Notes," free to teachers who will send us their P. O. address. Address

How to Teach Arithmetic

IS POINTED OUT STEP BY STEP IN

METHODS IN WRITTEN ARITHMETIC

BY PROF. JOHN W. COOK,

Professor of Mathematics in the Illinois Normal University.

This book is without a rival, and is the best presentation ever made of the entire subject. Every principle in Arithmetic and the best and latest methods are clearly explained and illustrated by examples, and all difficult points are fully solved and illustrated.

Prof. Cook is known throughout the country as a mathematical instructor without a superior, and in the discussions of this work he has embodied his best thoughts on the subject of teaching numbers, the fruits of a long experience, and the best methods that deep research and careful study have mastered. The matter contained in the book is the same in substance as that which Prof. Cook offers to his arithmetic classes in the Illinois Normal University. The definitions, methods of solution, form of analyses, etc., are precisely those in which his instruction of those classes he has found to be the most effective in leading pupils to an accurate and thorough knowledge of the subject. For clearness and simplicity, the book is absolutely unequaled, at least by anything that we have ever met with. We commend it to teachers as an invaluable help.

TESTIMONIALS.

Am highly pleased with its clearness and simplicity.—Prin. J. Pike.

I have not only been a careful reader, but a close student of Prof. Cook's work. It has been to me a fountain of new ideas.—C. J. Allen.

His years of class-room work make him an excellent judge of what is best to present, and the best manner of presenting it.—Supt. Burgess.

I regard it as very valuable. It is clear, practical, and without nonsensical "hair-splitting" in definitions or analysis.—E. A. Gastman.

Clear, sharp, and vigorous, it cannot fail to be a valuable auxiliary in the teaching of this important subject. Worth many times the cost.—S. Y. Gillan.

I do not know of any place where there can be found in so little space so much that is valuable, and so concisely said, as in this work. It seems to me that in every case he gives "the conclusion of the whole matter."—Joseph Carter.

I am glad Prof. Cook has published this volume, and I think it invaluable to correct work in arithmetic. For years past I have had to prepare notes for every new teacher appointed to my school. Prof. Cook's book relieves me of this labor, and in a most satisfactory manner.—W. H. Richardson.

COLLEGE OF COMMERCE.

ILLINOIS

WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY

BLOOMINGTON, ILL.

NOTHING SUCCEEDS LIKE SUCCESS.

Twice in two years we have outgrown our college rooms.

On June 13, we graduated the largest class ever graduated in this section of the country, and gave four beautiful gold medals for merit.

Though only two years in existence, our graduates are already found in banks and other counting rooms, in business houses of all kinds throughout the country. Several members of our last class are engaged to teach in business colleges in different parts of the country.

During the last year a number of our students executed specimens of Pen Art that cannot be excelled in the west. A single drawing by one student was valued at $500.

IN SHORT-HAND,

We had, in 1881, more students than any other business college in the United States had in the last year reported by the Commissioner of Education.

IT MUST NOT BE DENIED that we can fit students for short-hand amanuensis work in from one to three months, and for general reporting in from three to six months, for we have repeatedly done it. Schools all over the country are taking up our system—Eclectic Short-Hand.

The Reporters' Bureau, of Chicago, wrote us:

"We have found positions for several of your students, as amanuenses, and every one of them has been a success."

Young Man, Young Woman!

If you want the fullest course of study and practice in Accounts, Penmanship, and Stenography, with a certainty of success, send for our College Annual, and prepare to enter at the opening of our fall term, September 12.

HOW TO WRITE.

These two books, prepared by W. B. Powell, A. M., Superintendent of Schools, Aurora, Illinois, are the result of many years of successful effort in training children to talk and write correctly.

Their purpose is to guide the young learner in the correct use of language at the time when he is acquiring a vocabulary and forming habits of speech.

The ordinary school grammars and alleged language text-books fail because they are only suitable for comparatively advanced pupils, who commence their study too late, after bad habits of speech, which books are powerless to correct, have been formed.

Pupils reading in a Second or Third Reader, can readily understand everything in the first book.

Specimen copies for examination, with reference to adoption, sent prepaid on receipt of the introduction prices, which will be refunded if either the books are adopted or returned.

Liberal terms for first introduction in schools. Send for descriptive catalogue.

STATE NORMAL UNIVERSITY

NORMAL, McLEAN COUNTY, ILLINOIS.

This institution was established, by the General Assembly of the State, in 1857. Its sole purpose is to prepare teachers for the schools of the State. The several grades of the Model Department are established to aid in this work.

All students in the Normal Department are required to declare that their purpose in attending is to fit themselves for teaching, and all the work of the school is shaped to this single purpose. Probably no other Normal School Faculty in the country embodies so much of successful experience in Normal School work as ours.

Tuition is FREE to those who take a pledge to teach in the schools of Illinois; others pay tuition at the same rate as in the high school.

Our facilities for the study of Botany, Zoology, Geology, Chemistry, and Mineralogy, are excellent; and we now offer them to such as desire to make those studies a specialty at a very small cost.

THE HIGH-SCHOOL

grade of the Model Department offers the advantages of a first-class academy, and preparatory school. There are two courses of study,—the General and the Classical. Those who satisfactorily complete either course receive the Diploma of the University. The Classical course gives a thorough preparation for our best colleges; our graduates enter Harvard and Yale without difficulty. The General course offers excellent opportunities to those who do not have the time or inclination for an extended college course. Tuition in this grade, $30 a year,—or $10 a term. For particulars concerning the High School, address the principal, Edmund J. James, Ph. D.

THE GRAMMAR-SCHOOL

grade is under the charge of the Assistant Training Teacher; he does much of the teaching; sees that healthy discipline is maintained, and takes care that no improper or vicious pupils are admitted to the school. This school prepares pupils for the Normal Department, for the High School, or for general business. The instruction is given by teachers who are trained in the best modern methods, and who are under constant and efficient supervision. Pupils who complete the Preparatory Course are promoted to the High or Normal School without further examination. Tuition in Grammar Grade, $25 a year, or $8.33 a term.

For Catalogues and particulars, address

EDWIN C. HEWETT, PRESIDENT.

SCRIBNER'S GEOGRAPHICAL READER AND PRIMER

Is the only book published which presents the subject of Geography in an attractive and scientific form for beginners.

THIS BOOK IS MADE UP OF TWO PARTS.

PART I, 192 pp., is a Reader of the advanced third-reader grade, consisting of a series of picturesque readings, describing a journey round the world. This PART is designed for a Supplementary Reader, and as a basis for oral instruction in Geography.

PART II, 96 pp., including 16 pages of handsomely colored and clearly printed maps, is a Primer of Lessons in Geography, and, in a brief compass, by an admirable arrangement of lessons, exercises, and reviews, presents all the essentials of a FIRST BOOK on this subject.

A handsomely illustrated twelve-mo volume of 288 pages (including 16 pages of maps), substantially bound in full cloth, and with red edges.

THE PANTAGRAPH

ESTABLISHMENT

W. O. DAVIS, PROPRIETOR.

BLOOMINGTON, ILLINOIS.

ESTABLISHED 1846.

THE DAILY PANTAGRAPH.

The Daily edition is a neat 8-column folio, issued every morning (except Sunday); contains very full telegraphic dispatches of the Western Associated Press, reliable telegraphic market reports, and special telegrams and correspondence from all points in Central Illinois, covering the news field completely. It is received by Pantagraph agents in every town in this part of the State, on early morning trains, and furnished to its readers at 15 cents per week. Sent by mail anywhere for the same price. It is the best daily published for Central Illinois people.

THE WEEKLY PANTAGRAPH.

Its excellence is attested by the fact that its circulation is greater than any weekly published in a provincial city in Illinois. It contains a thorough condensation of all the news, foreign, general, state, and local, and correspondence from all parts of McLean and surrounding counties; accurate market reports, local and telegraph; choice stories and miscellany for home reading. Price, $1.50 per year in advance. All postmasters are agents to take subscriptions.

JOB DEPARTMENT.

This department of the Pantagraph Establishment has gained a reputation second to none in the west, for the execution of commercial, legal, school, and general printing. A specialty of stock work; no establishment in the world being better equipped for this class of work. Book and pamphlet printing in all the styles known to the "Art Preservative of all Arts." The following extract from a history of McLean County will bear republishing:

"In 1858, specimens of the Pantagraph job printing took the first premium at the great St. Louis Fair, at the National Fair in Chicago, the same year, and at the Illinois State Fair." "The job office of the Pantagraph is one of the best in Illinois, and the job printing is remarkable for its good taste."

Buying stock from the manufacturers direct, and having all modern machinery, enables us to compete with the world.

SCHOOL SPECIALTIES.

Under this head comes the Pantagraph Pen and Pencil Books, an article which has become as staple in the school room as the text-book. Wherever these goods are introduced, the noisy, screeching slate has been abandoned. A descriptive list sent on application. Special introduction discounts to schools. In addition to above, we publish Schureman's Township Treasurer's Books; Edwards' School Blanks, and many other like specialties.

BOOK BINDING.

It is not generally known that in Bloomington the metropolitan cities have a rival in this class of work. Bindings in all the various styles are here done at prices which defy competition. We submit the following testimonials in proof of these assertions:

NORMAL, ILLINOIS, September 23, 1882.
Having had a number of volumes bound at your establishment, I am happy to say that I am pleased with the whole job. The price was satisfactory, and the style and quality of the work metropolitan. Bloomington ought to be proud of your bindery. Yours respectfully, REV. H. R. PEAIRS.

BLOOMINGTON LIBRARY ASSOCIATION, September 25, 1882.
Having had considerable binding done at your establishment during the past two years, I take pleasure in recommending the style, durability, prices, etc. One of the best places to test the strength of the binder's work is in a public library. Respectfully, H. R. GALLNER, Librarian.

ILLINOIS STATE NORMAL UNIVERSITY, September 23, 1882.
I am pleased with the work you have done in binding books belonging to our University Library, together with the few you have bound for my private library. Of course, the kind of binding was not such as to call for fine work so much as for plain, strong work. Your work seems to be strong and substantial, and I regard your prices as very reasonable. Yours truly, E. C. HEWETT.

ILLINOIS STATE LABORATORY OF NATURAL HISTORY, September 25, 1882.
The Bloomington Pantagraph Bindery has bound about 260 volumes for the library of this institution during the last two years. The work has been thoroughly well done, in every particular, and at prices as low as we could get anywhere. S. A. FORBES, Director.

ILLINOIS SCHOOL JOURNAL, NORMAL, ILL., September 23, 1882.
Having had many books bound at your establishment, it gives me pleasure to say that I have found the work uniformly handsome and substantial. It is also reasonable in price. No better or more elegant work need be desired than is done at your establishment. Yours truly,

CHARLES DEGARMO,
Assistant Training Teacher, Illinois S. N. U.
